Find the Bully

A story where you become the bully, victim or bystander based on your choices.

You play as a teenager exploring school with two friends.
What you say and do changes the story.

Why I want to make this

WHAT WE ARE TOLD

We know bullying is wrong.

WHAT CAN HAPPEN

Experience bullying from different perspectives to build awareness.

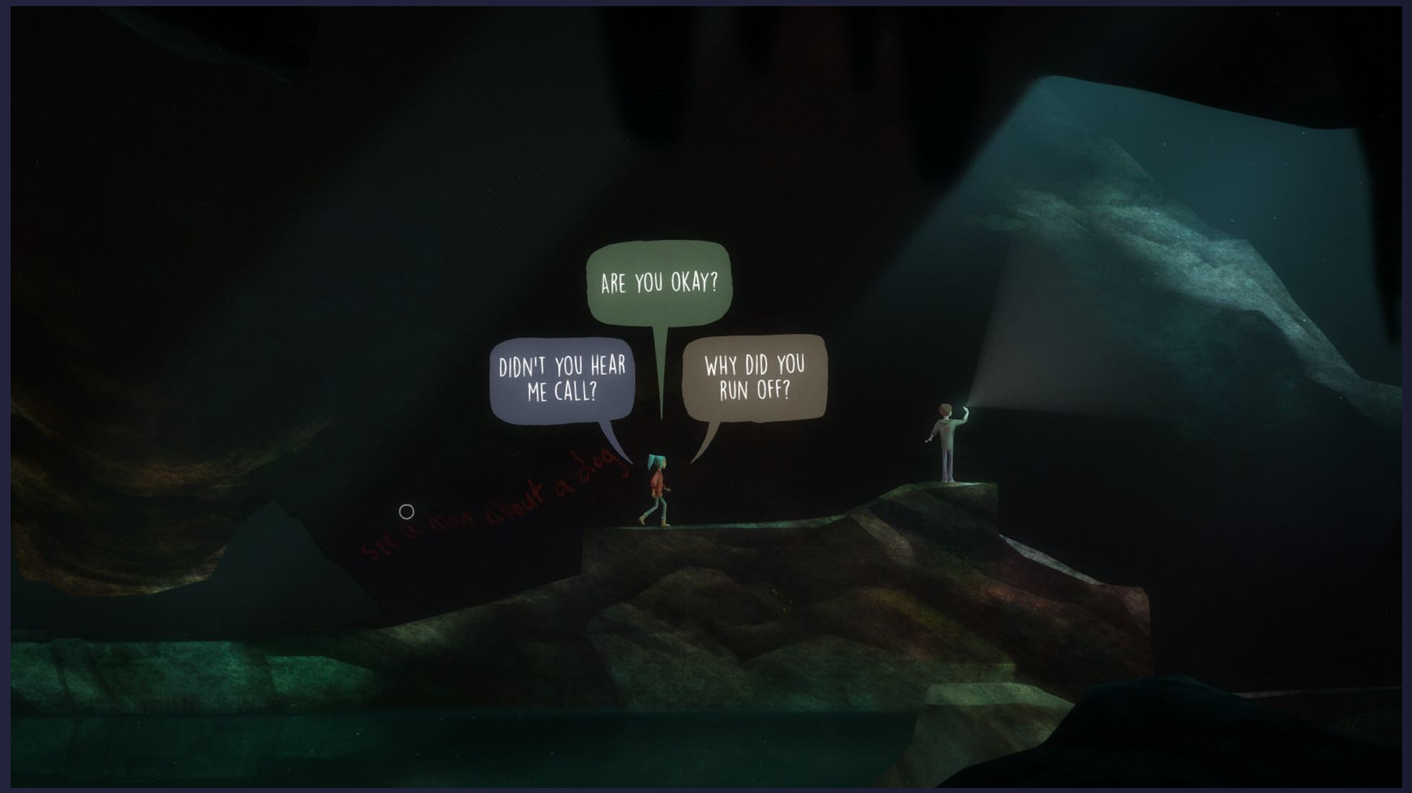

BULLYING AND PEER PRESSURE

Let players see the harm they cause.

FOR TEENS

Also for discussions at school.

How Oxenfree’s dialogue works

OXENFREE · Night School Studio · reference screenshot

OXENFREE / HOW IT WORKS

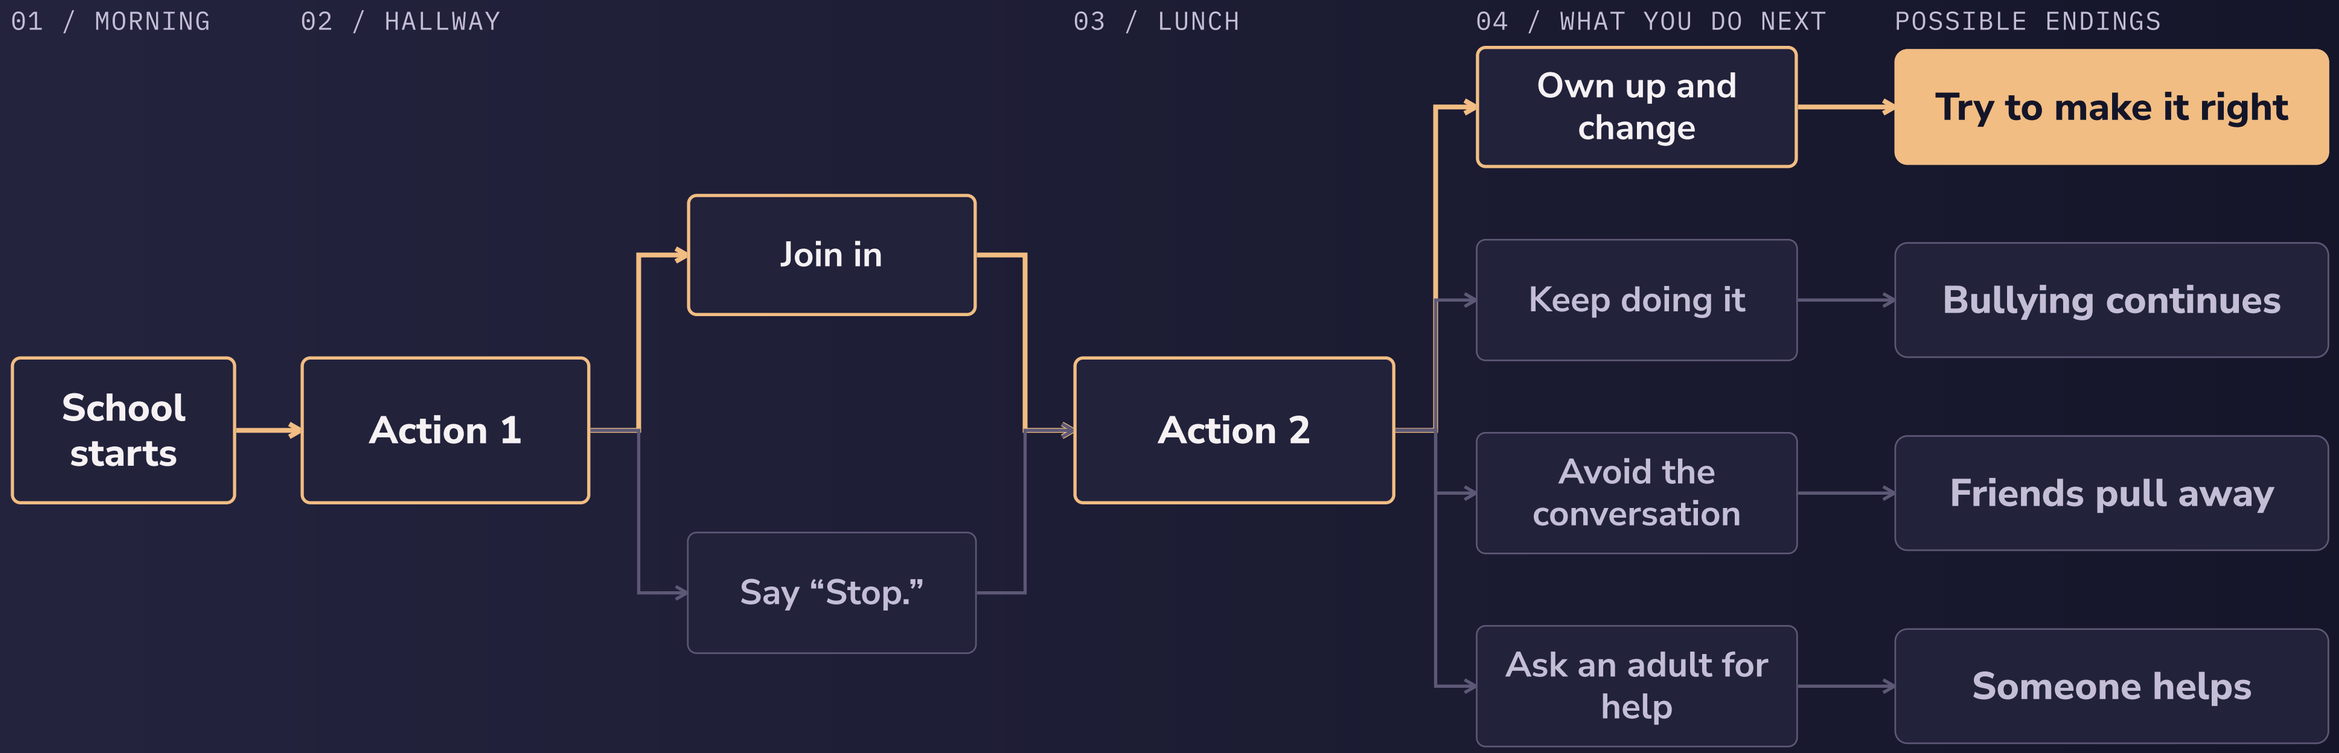

Keep walking while talking.

Replies don’t stay forever.

The story matters. Players see themselves in the characters and connect with them.

No reply before time runs out = silence.

How the story branches

What you see at the end

Who are you: a bully, a victim or a bystander?

Why did you do it?

You wanted to fit in.

What went wrong?

You kept making the joke.
It hurt someone.

What could you have done instead?

Stop the joke.
Listen to the person you hurt.

If you were bullied: support, not blame.
If you watched: what could you have done?

Knowing why doesn’t make it okay.
Saying sorry doesn’t fix everything.

I want players to think about it.

How did I hurt someone? What could I have done differently? How can I make it right?

HOW I WANT PLAYERS TO FEEL

- Curious
- Involved
- Uneasy
- I get it
- Thinking